Customer Reviews

The first thing about this series that got my sci-fi motor whirring was the title of book 1: THE LAST THING I REMEMBER. But having been disappointed by the conclusions of series twice in the last 7 years, I was wary. "It's not really about what I think it's about." I thought. "I'll spend time reading the whole thing & he'll forget all about what that title sounded like. At least it won't take 30 or even 5 years." What disappointments made me so cynical? The conclusion to THE DARK TOWER by Stephen King, which took 30 years, and the conclusion to LOST, which took 5. But the HOMELANDERS series by Andrew Klavan did not disappoint me. It wasn't until book 3 that I knew it was either science fiction or science fact. It was in pharmaceuticals, a field where fiction & fact keep chasing each other, so it was hard to know. It wasn't until the final book that I was sure it was science fiction. So if you like sci-fi there's a good chance you will like this. This series is packed with action and suspense, and the action sequences are just stunning. I don't think you'll be able to figure out what's going to happen. At least I couldn't, and I tried. (Still I read more sci-fi than I do action/suspense, so if you read a lot of this sort of thing, maybe you'll do better than I did.) So what were its flaws? There are basically two. 1. The narration falters at times. I thought some of the ordinary story-telling narration, the stuff we readers rely on to make the story real, didn't quite work. When describing the girl he is falling in love with, narrator Charlie makes way too much use of the incurably lame word "nice." 2.
